

ClimBEco* is a 2-year research school at LU with the mandate to support PhD students in developing their interdisciplinary thinking and networking. At ClimBEco we offer both subject-specific and interdisciplinary courses, as well as organize exciting meetings, seminars and other platforms for PhD students to present and discuss with each other and in some cases with members of society at large.

The application period for the 2021-2023 programme will open in January 2021. More information at www.climbeco.lu.se

*ClimBEco stands for Climate, Biodiversity and Ecosystem Services in a changing world. The research school is financed by and in turn supports the development of the Science faculty of Lund University as well as the Strategic Research Areas of BECC and MERGE.
